Singapore, 4th April 2023 - Caixin Global has announced that it will be hosting its first Asia New Vision Forum in mid June in Singapore. The event is supported by the Singapore Economic Development Board \(EDB\) and the Singapore Tourism Board \(STB\).

This is the first international forum launched by a China-based media outlet in the post-Covid era. It aims to reflect global, Asian and Chinese perspectives, contribute to important international agendas and exchanges, and help the international business community better understand the real Asia.

The forum will be held at Marina Bay Sands, and the theme for the inaugural conference is "Recalibrating the Compass." Policymakers, business leaders, and renowned scholars from the Asia-Pacific region and worldwide will gather to discuss key topics such as China’s interaction with the world, economic development and cooperation, business innovation and climate change challenges.

The forum will take the pulse of current geopolitical, business trends and examine how collaboration can drive future innovations. More than 200 policymakers, C-level business leaders and scholars are expected to gather to discuss "new visions" across the themes of: Global, Home, Tech, and Green. Covering five major areas of economics and trade, finance, technology, governance, and ecology, the forum will explore more than 40 topics with global and especially Asian perspectives. Its mix of public and closed-door discussions will offer a platform to exchange in-depth information, while fostering candid dialogues and close interactions.

Hu Shuli, Chairwoman of Caixin Global, said Singapore is one of the most open and competitive economies in the world. The Caixin Summit has held special Singapore tracks for the last three years, attracting widespread attention.

"The first Caixin Asia New Vision Forum intends to establish a candid and influential platform between Asia and the world on the international stage. In the broader context of leveraging the rising growth of Asia post-Covid, China will embrace openness. Here in Singapore, the Forum will deliver more Asian voices to the world," Hu said.

Keith Tan, Chief Executive Officer of the Singapore Tourism Board, said: "We welcome Caixin Global's decision to host the inaugural Asia New Vision Forum in Singapore. This decision underscores Singapore's position as the best place in Asia for world-class business events. Singapore's MICE (Meetings, Incentives, Conferences and Exhibitions) sector has made a strong comeback, and the Forum will complement the strong pipeline of business events in Singapore. We look forward to welcoming the delegates in June."

Jacqueline Poh, Managing Director of the Singapore Economic Development Board, said: "We are pleased to partner Caixin for the first Asia New Vision Forum in Singapore. China's reopening makes this an opportune time for business leaders, policymakers and thought leaders from East and West to meet in person and engage in dialogue. As a hub for global business, talent and innovation in the heart of Asia, Singapore is proud to support the development of ideas and partnerships across trade, technology and sustainability. We look forward to a successful event that will further business for good.”

As one of the most respected and trusted media outlets, Caixin has continuously produced original and in-depth news content. It was the first media in China to launch a paid online subscription news service. Based on this foundation, Caixin is committed to building a high-quality and influential conference platform.
